I understand that I am still responsible for all the terms and conditions of my Lease, including but not limited to, provisions addressing the Security Deposit, Termination as well as all addenda.

I understand that my apartment may be released to a new or future resident based upon this Notice to Vacate. I also understand that if I fail to vacate my apartment by the Move-out Date and my apartment has been released, the future resident may be displaced, thereby causing additional expenses for the Owner and future resident. If a future resident is unable to move into the apartment because of my failure to vacate by the Move-out Date, I agree that I will be liable to the Owner and future resident for any and all incidental and consequential costs, damages and expenses resulting from my failure to move, including, but not limited to, higher or additional rental charges, alternative lodging charges, utility charges, telephone charges, insurance costs and any and all other charges related to my failure to move on or before the Move-out Date.

The Move-out Date given above is the definite date by which I will vacate my apartment. Any changes in this date must be communicated to the management office in writing. However, I acknowledge and agree that any change in Move-out Date is subject to Owner's discretionary approval and may be denied. Therefore, I may be held liable for all costs incurred by Owner and a future resident based on the original Move-out Date set forth in this Notice. I understand that I will receive an information packet acknowledging receipt of this Notice, and estimated charges, if applicable.

Resident is solely responsible for terminating any and all automatically recurring debit payments made to Owner in connection with the Lease, and any rent or fees related thereto. Resident agrees that Owner bears no responsibility for continued debiting of Resident's account as a result of Resident's failure to terminate said automatic debit payments.
